

House Faces Battle Over Unemployment Benefits Next Week

LANSING (P)—With the fight over a fair employment practices bill behind them, House members face another big battle next week over unemployment compensation.

The House got a forecast of things to come Thursday when Republicans tried unsuccessfully to shove through an unemployment compensation bill without Democratic amendments.

Republicans caucused on the issue before it came up for debate. Then they tried to block a request from Rep. Ed Carey D-Detroit, Democratic floor leader, that the bill be laid over to give Democrats time to prepare amendments.

Carey said he had been approached by Republicans who wanted him to agree to withhold amendments. In return for this,

Formosa Policy Wins Approval Of Sen. George

AUGUSTA, Ga. (P)—Backing President Eisenhower, Sen. George (D-Ga.) said Thursday night the cause of peace would not be advanced by any public announcement on whether the United States would defend Quemoy and Matsu.

And George, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, suggested the issue of whether those Chinese Nationalist off-shore islands should be defended has become a "football of politics."

The Democratic congressional leader's stand amounted to indirect criticism of such Republican senators as Knowland of California and Bridges of New Hampshire. Both GOP leaders have called for a declaration of the administration's intentions regarding Quemoy and Matsu.

George said he knows quite well what Eisenhower will do if and when he is faced with a decision whether to defend the off-shore islands.

"We will do what good men always do," George declared, his voice breaking with emotion. "He will go into his closet and, face to face with his God, make his decision."

"And I for one don't want to force his hand in making that decision."

The President has given no hint of his plans, but he does have the authorization of Congress to defend "related areas" in any general defense of Formosa against an assault by Red China.

Ferguson Toasts With Champagne But Drinks Cider

MANILA (P)—U. S. Ambassador Homer Ferguson, on an official call to the department of foreign affairs, was served California cider. Visiting diplomats traditionally get wine or champagne.

The former Michigan Senator does not drink alcoholic beverages.

When Ferguson presented his credentials to President Ramon Magsaysay Tuesday, he accepted a glass of champagne for the traditional toast. He raised the glass to his lips. But that's as far as the champagne got.

Russia To End Occupation By Next Dec. 31

MOSCOW (P)—The Soviet government called today for the speedy conclusion of an Austrian independence treaty and withdrawal of all occupation troops not later than next Dec. 31.

A joint Soviet-Austrian communique issued this afternoon said Austrian Chancellor Julius Raab had assured Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov that Austria will not join any military alliances or permit the establishment of any foreign military bases in its territory.

Prospects Bright For 1956 Victory, Democrats Told

WASHINGTON (P)—Democrats assembled for a two-day rally heard from National Chairman Paul M. Butler today that prospects for a Democratic victory in 1956 "are bright regardless of who is heading the Republican ticket."

In a report prepared for a meeting of the party's national committee, Butler said Democratic hopes are high despite what he called "efforts of the high-priced Republican propaganda experts to persuade the press and public" that President Eisenhower is unbeatable.

Butler said there is a "definite Democratic trend running right now," and added the Republican

US Airmen Still Jailed In China

WASHINGTON (P)—Two more senators called today for an accounting from Secretary of State Dulles of U. N. efforts to obtain release of 15 U. S. airmen jailed in Red China.

Sen. Hickenlooper (R-Iowa) said Dulles should tell the Senate Foreign Relations Committee "exactly what the situation is today."

If Dag Hammarskjold, U. S. secretary general, has failed in his attempt to win the fliers' freedom, Hickenlooper said, the United States "should consider what to do, either unilaterally or with the help of our allies."

Sen. Mansfield (D-Mont.) cautioned against "impassioned or indiscreet" demands for tough U. S. counter-action but he said Congress "should have a complete report from Dulles and we should get that report next Tuesday."

Dulles is slated to go before the committee that day to answer questions on last month's publication of the long-secret Yalta papers.

The United States has accused Red China of holding the 15 Americans in violation of the Korean armistice. Most of them are serving jail sentences on "spy" charges denounced as false by this country.

Texas Convicts Give Up Strike For Three Meals

HUNTSVILLE, Tex. (P)—Meek and hungry, 52 toughy convicts who demonstrated nearly 30 hours for "three squares" a day ate two meals today in their dark maximum security cells.

Sullen, naked and thirsty from the hot Texas sun, they returned to their cells quietly Thursday after giving up 29 hours 45 minutes after their bloodless strike began.

The convicts Wednesday refused to return to their cells at the main state prison after an exercise period. They chanted they wanted three square meals a day instead of the two they received. Prison system Mgr. O. B. Ellis told them "nothing doing."

Ellis explained to newsmen the maximum security prisoners, most of them in solitary confinement much of the time, did no work and did not need the three meals a day which working convicts on the state's prison farms get.

When guards trained machine guns, rifles and tear gas guns on the surly felons, they threatened to cut their heel tendons, an old Texas-prison device to escape work and harsh treatment. Their original leader, 27-year-old dope addict Charlie Pierce, once threatened movie cameramen with a baseball bat in the nearest thing to violence that accompanied the demonstration.

But Pierce, a scar-faced 200-pounder, backed down when the cameramen called his bluff and did not turn off their klieg lights as he had demanded.

Ellis, Warden E. L. King of the state prison's segregation unit, and other prison officials quickly adopted a "wait and see" policy with "no concessions" to the demonstrators. Ellis told the convicts of his decision, turned heel and walked away.

Ellis said the convicts all would receive the same punishment. Loss of reading and exercise privileges and meals served in their cells for 30 days.

Innocent Man Freed After 19 Years In Prison

ST. PAUL, Minn. (P)—A man who went through 19 years of hurt and humiliation in Minnesota prisons will within a few weeks earn the final reward of a plodding justice.

Slender Leonard Hankins of Dawson Springs, Ky., will accept the first of $300 monthly pension checks, Minnesota's payment for the years of suffering it inflicted on an innocent man.

Hankins will accept it with gratitude, some disappointment and no bitterness.

Legislature Grants Pension

"It's enough to live on," the 59-year-old Southerner said in a resolute drawl that carried no anger. "But I'm kind of disappointed that they couldn't have done more for me."

A bill providing Hankins with $300 a month the rest of his life has been passed by both houses of the Minnesota Legislature. When a number of other unrelated claims are settled by a conference committee, the bill goes to the governor. Hankins' payments would be retroactive to Jan. 1.

"I thank God that the legislature did as much for me as it did," Hankins said. "The only thing for me to do now is to put all of those terrible years behind me. I don't want to think of them."

"But I don't blame the people who sent me to prison. You forget all about that because it's so good to be a free man."

Cleared In 1935

Hankins was pardoned in 1951, years after members of the Barker-Karpis gang which held up the Third Northwestern Bank in Minneapolis and killed two policemen in 1932, had confessed Hankins had no part in the bank robbery.

Hankins, because shaky circumstances pointed to him, was convicted Feb. 6, 1933 and sentenced to life imprisonment.

In 1935 mobster Jesse Doyle, a member of the Barker gang, cleared Hankins of any connection with the crime. A long chain of hearings followed for Hankins. Several times he was promised his freedom.

Hankins won his release largely through the efforts of his sister, Mrs. Delia Lowery, Jack McKay, St. Paul correspondent for the Associated Press, and Sig Couch, a former Minneapolis detective. Mrs. Lowery was granted $10,000 by the legislators as partial recompense for money spent in gaining her brother's release.

Hankins within a few days will return to Dawson Springs, Ky., where he now helps his sister run a tourist park. He is writing a book about his experience, titled "19 Years—Not Guilty."

From it he hopes to make enough money "to help out needy kids."

Return Oil Fields

The Soviet government also pledged: 1. to settle its reparations bill against Austria for the equivalent of 150 million dollars in Austrian goods; 2. to return to Austria all former German property in the Soviet zone including the Danube Shipping Co., and 3. to return the Austrian oil fields and refineries which the Russians have been operating during their 10-year occupation.

The joint communique summed up the results of negotiations between Molotov, Raab and their aides which began here Tuesday. It was issued two hours after the Austrian government chief, Deputy Chancellor Adolf Schaerf and their party left in a Soviet military plane for Vienna.

The Russian-Austrian agreement now must be approved by the United States, Britain and France before it can be incorporated in the independence treaty and the treaty can be signed. It was expected that a Big Four meeting would be called soon to do this.

Schaerf indicated earlier today that Western agreement to the new treaty provision was almost certain. The Austrian delegation has been keeping the Western allies abreast of the developments in Moscow. State Department officials in Washington said Thursday Russia's reported attitude was "encouraging."

Court Decision Favors Realtors

LANSING (P)—Michigan lawyers lost their State Supreme Court fight to prevent real estate brokers from filling out legal papers in real estate deals.

The court held in a 6-1 decision that brokers may fill out standard form purchase and sale agreements, deeds, land contracts, mortgages, mortgage assignments and similar papers if they do it without charging extra fees and in the normal course of their business.

The Ingham County Bar Assn., backed by the State Bar of Michigan had gone to court to stamp out the practice. They sued two Lansing realtors, Edward G. Hacker and Walter Neller, who were supported by the Michigan Real Estate Assn.

The two realtors were accused by the bar of illegally practicing law in a suit widely watched by both the legal profession and the real estate business.

The supreme court said the attorneys were "unrealistic and impractical."

It said the bar's position, if approved, would put real estate operators to great expense and inconvenience by requiring the presence of an attorney to close every real estate deal.

Prime Minister Calls For British Election May 26

LONDON (P)—Prime Minister Sir Anthony Eden tonight called a British general election for May 26.

Eden announced the polling date in a special nationwide broadcast over the government sponsored British Broadcasting Corp's two major networks.

Plane Plunge Kills Three Near Airport At South Bend, Ind.

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (P)—Three men were killed Thursday night in the crash of a small plane in a pasture a short time after it left the South Bend airport.

The dead were Frank N. Gillespie, 21, Gallatin, Tenn., the pilot, and Lloyd L. Patheal Jr., 31, Charleston, Ill., and Tom Falk, 28, Mattoon, Ill., both from the sales department of Midwest Homes Inc. of Mattoon.

Donald Wyant sighted the plane early today across the field from his home near the Kankakee river west of South Bend. The plane left South Bend airport at 10 p. m. Thursday night.

Patheal and Falk had come to South Bend Wednesday to attend the opening of Midwest Homes operations in the area.

The nose of the plane was buried in the pasture and an oil streak along the underside of the fuselage indicated the plane may have had motor trouble before the crash.

Two men fishing in the area

last night said they heard a plane in the fog and thought they saw lights dip and then an explosion. They searched with flashlights for some time, but gave up when it appeared they had been mistaken.

Their footprints were found within 100 yards of the wreckage today.

Patheal was still seated with the pilot and Falk was in the back seat of the four-plane. The plane's ignition had been cut off before the crash.

Democrats Attempt To Upset Election Mandate In Lansing

LANSING (P)—The Senate expected to vote today for bipartisan control of Michigan elections despite a last minute attempt by Democrats to upset it.

The vote was on a bill to implement the voters' approval at the April 4 spring election of a constitutional amendment proposal 4 requiring a bipartisan State Board of Canvassers.

The bill would turn over to the new four-man board—two Republicans and two Democrats—the supervision of Michigan elections and recounts and the present state elections division. All these now are operated by the Secretary of State.

Missile Takes Off By Accident

FT. MEADE, Md. (P)—Admittedly "embarrassed," the Army had a board of inquiry working today to find out what caused a Nike guided missile to run away.

Sgt. I/C Stanley C. Kozek of Allentown, Pa., was slightly burned Thursday when the missile, armed with a warhead, suddenly took off during a routine practice alert.

It exploded, apparently while in flight, over the intersection of the Baltimore-Washington Expressway and Maryland 602, about one mile from the edge of the military reservation.

Lt. Col. Dwight Bingham, deputy chief of information at 2nd Army headquarters here, who admitted the Army's embarrassment, said it was fortunate no one else was hurt and no property destroyed.

The accidental launching, Bingham indicated, may have been caused by a crewman or a malfunction in the electronic firing mechanism.

Pvt. R. C. Lamon, a Federal Parks policeman, witnessed the explosion on the parkway. He said some of the metal fragments "gouged about a half dozen holes, about a half-foot to a foot in diameter," in the concrete surface.

Cramps Cancel Swim To Port Angeles, Wash.

VICTORIA, B. C. (P)—Burly Bert Thomas was seized with a stomach cramp shortly after being fed early today and was pulled out of the water, ending his attempt to conquer the Strait of Juan de Fuca between here and Port Angeles, Wash.

The 29-year-old 270-pound former U. S. Marine frogman, was pulled from the water at 4:10 a. m. (CST) after he had covered 6 1/2 miles of the 18.3 miles across the strait. Only shortly before he had said: "It's a cinch."

Barber, 100, Observes Diamond Anniversary

MARCELLUS, Mich. (P)—Charles Decker, a retired barber, will have a double celebration Monday. It will be his 100th birthday and his diamond wedding anniversary. Decker and his wife, Melissa, 95, were married in Vicksburg, Mich., 75 years ago.

Confessed Slayer Of 6 Held For 3 Kentucky Murders

ENDERSON, Ky. (P)—Murder warrants charging Leslie Irvin, 30, with the slaying of three Kentucky residents have been signed by Henderson county sheriff Lee Williams.

Irvin, being held across the Ohio River at Evansville, Ind., has admitted killing six persons in the area, according to authorities.

Sheriff Williams said Thursday night that although he has charged the husky Evansville steam-pipe insulation worker with the three killings, no effort will be made immediately to have Irvin extradited to Kentucky. Instead the murder warrants will stand and Irvin will be brought to trial if released by Indiana authorities.

The warrants charge Irvin with the slayings March 28 near Smith Mills of:

Goebel Duncan, 51-year-old farmer.

His son, Raymond Duncan, 20, wife, Elizabeth Duncan, 20, wife of another of Duncan's sons.

Williams also signed another warrant charging Irvin with malicious shooting and wounding.

Investigators have quoted Irvin as saying he killed the Duncans to cover up his identity when they surprised him burglarizing Raymond Duncan's home.

Goebel Duncan's wife, Mrs. Marie Duncan, also was shot but is recovering.

Children Take Two Polio Shots

LANSING (P)—Michigan's first and second grade children will receive only two doses of Salk polio vaccine this spring and a booster shot seven months later.

The State Health Department disclosed Thursday night that it

Schedule Unchanged

The polio vaccine clinic schedule for Delta County will be unchanged for the first shot to be given First and Second graders, said Dr. William C. Harrison, district health director. Announcement will be made later on the date of the second vaccine shot. The Salk vaccine supply will be received here prior to Monday, Dr. Harrison has been assured.

Godfrey Fires Six On His Show

NEW YORK (P)—Arthur Godfrey today fired six more performers from his television and radio shows, but this time did not do it on the air.

In his biggest reshuffling of talent since he publicly dismissed Julius LaRosa in October 1953, CBS announced that Godfrey has "discontinued the services" of the Mariners Quartet, Marion Marlowe and Haleloke, all singers.

They are being dropped from all of the Godfrey shows they worked, the daily radio-TV program, the Wednesday night TV show and the Friday night radio show.

The dismissals were made effective today. Godfrey made no mention of the action on his morning show. Also terminated were the services of three writers—Charles Horner, Preston H. Miles and Charles Slocum.

had revised its program for the free vaccination program in the schools to conform to a changed national policy.

Dr. F. S. Leeder, director of disease control for the department, said Michigan will give the first polio shots to first and second grade pupils in most of the counties Monday as originally planned. A few counties do not plan to start until the following week.

But the second shot, instead of coming a week after the first, probably will be given four weeks later, Dr. Leeder said.

Then the booster shots will be given next winter.

Dr. Leeder said the state was acting on advice of the National Advisory Commission in Washington, D. C., and following changed schedules being adopted by a number of other states.

Deer Season Opening May Be Changed For Upper Peninsula

LANSING (P)—The House Conservation Committee is expected to recommend separate deer season opening dates for the Upper and Lower Peninsulas. Rep. Kenneth O. Trucks (R-Baldwin), chairman of the committee, said a bill now before his group will be amended to provide for an opening in the Upper Peninsula on the Saturday closest to Nov. 15.

In the Lower Peninsula, the season would either remain as it is now—Nov. 15 to Nov. 30—or be moved back to start Nov. 20 and close Dec. 8.

Friendship Club Notes Anniversary With Gala Party

Thursday marked the first anniversary of the Friendship Club, a social organization made up of men and women more than 50 years of age, and the occasion was noted in a very special way at Club 314 last evening.

There was a 6:30 dinner, followed by cards and dancing. Corsages were provided for the ladies and there was special entertainment. The highlight of the evening was the cutting of a huge anniversary cake. Forty-two people were present.

The Friendship Club was launched one year ago under the sponsorship of the Gerontology Committee of the Escanaba Woman's Club. Facilities of Club 314 were turned over to them by the city recreation board and the club has met every second Thursday of each month. A total attendance of slightly over 900 has been recorded for the past season. Bertha LaChapelle has directed the affairs of the organization.

At last night's meeting the special entertainment was several pantomime numbers by Mrs. Lois Swank. The corsages were provided by the Escanaba Women's Club.

There are two more meetings left on this season's calendar and it was decided by those present that the closing party will be a smorgasbord supper at the Dells.

Two Youths, Adrift On Bay, Rescued From Raft

Rescued from a raft that was carrying them rapidly out into the darkness that settled over the icy water of Little Bay de Noc, two Escanaba boys today were none the worse for their experience—but they had learned a lesson they will long remember.

Rodger Noblet, 16, of 321½ S. 9th St., and Emory LaFave, 15, of 316 S. 8th St., were rescued at 7:26 last night by Coast Guardsmen of the lighthouse station at Sand Point. The boys had drifted from the Sand Island area a distance of one-half to three-quarters of a mile southeast into the bay.

Chief Harvey Ellsworth, officer in charge of the Coast Guard light station at Escanaba, said the boys were cold but bravely jocular when they were taken aboard the Coast Guard launch from the raft. "I told them that I hoped they had learned their lesson," Chief Ellsworth said. One of the boys replied that he had seen enough water to last him for a long time.

Home For Aged Planned; Alley Closing Asked

The Escanaba Planning Commission last night adopted a motion recommending to the City Council that it vacate an alley in an area east of S. 23rd St. near 5th Ave. S., the site of a proposed home for Catholic old people to be built by the Diocese of Marquette.

Public hearing will be held in connection with the alley closing requested by the Diocese of Marquette. The city has already reached agreement with authorities of the Diocese regarding the maintenance of city utilities in the area if the alley closing should be approved.

It was unofficially reported that the home for old people will cost an estimated $375,000, of which $100,000 is in gifts from the late Mrs. Catherine Bonifas, and that the structure will have three stories and 60 rooms.

Study Industrial Area
Specifically, the Planning Commission recommended to the Council that it vacate the south 400 feet of the alley on the east side of S. 23rd St., between 3rd and 5th Avenues. The proposed home for Catholic aged would center over the alley area to be vacated.

In other business the Commission referred to its traffic committee for further study the question of changes that may be desirable to the intersections of 13th and 14th Streets S. and Lake Shore Drive.

A request of Arthur Arbour to purchase about 12 acres of city-owned land on the west side of US-241 just north of the Delta Convalescent Home, referred to the Commission by the City Council, was studied by the Commission. A motion was adopted recommending that the Council not sell the area at this time, and that the use of the area is receiving further study by the Commission's industrial committee.

Favor EYC Request

The Planning Commission also discussed with City Manager A. V. Aronson the need to establish some form of control for drifting sand along the Ludington Park swimming beach, and to extend pedestrian sidewalks through Ludington Park to the lagoon bridge and the beach.

To control the sand it was recommended that the sidewalk in front of the beachhouse be widened and that a retaining wall be built in front of it to catch drifting sand; and that sidewalks leading to the beach area be given further study by the Commission's recreation committee.

A request of the Escanaba Yacht Club to enlarge its building with a porch this summer, later to be screened or glassed, was recommended for approval by the city. The request came to the Commission from the City Council.

Counties included in the central U. P. region are Marquette, Alger, Delta, Dickinson, Menominee and Schoolcraft.

Commenting on the conference, Johnson said: "In the light of the importance and significance of this undertaking and when we consider that every community—city and hamlet, rural and urban—in each of the 48 states has the opportunity to assist in aiding the cause of education, we dare not fail in this challenge. Ours is a heavy responsibility."

Option On TV Site Received

ISHPEMING—A tentative option for a direct television broadcasting site to serve several north central counties has been received by three Upper Peninsula broadcasting companies from the Cleveland-Cliffs Iron Company.

The site is located in the Eagle Mills area, adjacent to the new iron ore pelletizing plant being constructed by Cleveland-Cliffs. Its selection was determined by elevation and geographical suitability and by electric power and electronic facilities.

Lake Superior Broadcasting Company, Marquette; North Central Broadcasting Company, Marquette, which is proceeding with plans for erection of an AM radio station in Munising, and the Iron Mountain-Kingsford Broadcasting Company, Iron Mountain, are parties to the tentative agreement.

Direct network and local broadcasting are contemplated by the new corporation, which will be formed to operate the television station. Whether the station will be operated on a very high frequency (VHF) channel or an ultra high frequency (UHF) channel will be determined by availability of channels as assigned or allocated by the Federal Communications Commission.

Immediate steps are being taken to assure telecasting at the earliest possible date, dependent upon FCC action and network arrangements. Preliminary negotiations are underway.

The Griffin Associated Fisheries has a crew of 130 working in smelt cleaning operations at the Fairgrounds, including a night crew of 60 women added last night.

A number of persons also are employed at Hermansville where the cleaned smelt are quick frozen and packaged for shipment. Some smelt also are being fried at Hermansville and then quick frozen. About 10,000 pounds of smelt were processed at the Griffin plant in Escanaba yesterday and last night.

Jensen and Jensen and other local fish buyers also are reported to have received quantities of dip-netted smelt.

The Whitey Cat Food Company which processes smelt for cat food expects to get operations under way at the Gladstone cannery this weekend. The cat food company expects to process a larger quantity than last spring because of new markets that were added during the past year.

Runs have not yet been reported in the Ford River, Bark River, Escanaba River or other well known smelt streams in this area but they are expected to get considerable action in the next day or so.

Want to feel like a pilot feels?

Today's the day to "Join The Test Pilot Club" and see what a thrill you get when you try Variable Pitch Dynaflo®

We're not kidding. When you try a '55 Buick with Variable Pitch Dynaflo, you'll feel like a pilot does when he heads his plane down a runway for take-off.

For you, in the driver's seat, are doing what that pilot does—you're changing the pitch of your propellers—one way for instant response on getaway—another way for better gas mileage in cruising.

Your propellers are whirling in oil, deep inside the Dynaflo unit. When you press the pedal in the normal way, you hold those propellers in their economy angle—and you enjoy plenty more miles from your gasoline.

But when you want instant acceleration—for quick getaway, or for a sudden safety-surge of emergency power—you just press the pedal way down, and—with absolute smoothness—you get the action you want, and split-second quick.

It's the thrill that's the talk of the industry—performance unlike anything you have ever known before on the ground.

And so many folks have been asking to try it that we Buick dealers across America have set up April as "Test Pilot Club" Month. All it takes to join the "Club" is a test drive at the wheel of a new Buick. That's all.

So we cordially invite you to win your "wings"—to try the spectacular performance of Variable Pitch Dynaflo—and to feel the mighty V8 power that puts the whip to these gorgeous new Buick beauties. Drop in this week.

Soviet Treaty Cancellations
No Cause For Surprise, Alarm

RUSSIA'S decision to annul its World War II pacts of friendship and alliance with Britain and France should occasion neither surprise nor alarm in the Western world.

For all practical purposes the Soviet Union canceled these treaties almost at the war's end. From that time forward, the Kremlin has been operating as if the pacts did not exist. If it could have managed it, Russia would today be ruling France through the medium of the French Communist Party. And a Communist-dominated Europe would not have found Britain in a very enviable position.

The only reason the Soviet Union has not been able in the years since World War II to wipe out all that Britain and France stand for is that they, in company with the United States and others, have banded together to prevent it.

The NATO pact was the keystone of this preventive effort. Coming on the heels of the Marshall Plan, which had helped bring economic recovery to Western Europe, NATO drove home to the Soviets the realization that these countries could no longer be taken without a major fight.

The one missing element in NATO was the industrial and armed might of Germany. The Paris pacts, nearing final approval of all the affected nations, remedy that deficiency by endorsing German rearmament and entry into NATO.

The Russians now say these agreements are "directed against" them. The truth, which they well understand, is that they are "protective against" the Soviet Union. What annoys the Kremlin so thoroughly is that pulling Germany into the Western orbit is the last, the irretrievable step in blocking Russia's way to an easy conquest of Western Europe.

No smoke-screen propaganda about the rebirth of German militarism can cloak the fact that for nearly ten years the menace to freedom has not been Germany but Russia. No one but the most glibly neutralists will be impressed by the argument the Kremlin now advances for breaking off "friendship" with Britain and France.

The practice in the Kremlin has long been to observe some treaties as long as it is convenient or compelling to do so, to break others almost before the ink is dry, but postpone public repudiation of them until some moment when the act of severing ties can be milked for propaganda advantage. The latter course has been followed in the case of the wartime friendship and alliance pacts.

Nothing is really changed by this act. Russia is not thereby more likely to undertake war with the West. Nobody but a madman fights unless he thinks he can win. The prospective incorporation of Germany into the Western family raises the barrier to Soviet conquest higher than it was.

Whatever noises emanate from the Kremlin in the wake of this historic development, the chances are strong that the outlook for peace has been improved rather than diminished. That, and not Communist verbiage, is what counts.

Still Growing

WITHOUT making any attempt to forecast the future, it can be said that the confidence which business leaders and investors and others are expressing in the American economy has plenty of justification in current events.

The Chamber of Commerce of the United States recently listed some of the plus factors. Steel production is now at 90 per cent of capacity as against 70 per cent a year ago. Electric power output is running at about 10,000,000,000 kilowatt-hours a week as against 8,500,000,000 in March, 1954. Freight car loadings are also above a year ago. Exports and imports are up about $100,000,000 per month over a year ago. First quarter car sales are expected to total a third greater than in the same period of 1954. And spendable income (which is income after taxes) is at its all-time high.

We're still a growing and an expanding nation.

Today In Washington

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON—If Adlai Stevenson had contrived purposely to encourage the Communist Chinese to believe that America is disunited and that her allies are seriously at odds with her on Far Eastern policy, he could not have delivered a more convincing speech to that end than he did on Monday night.

For, while to many Americans the former presidential candidate would seem to have been motivated merely by domestic political considerations and by his own ambitions—which can be realized only by undermining the political popularity of President Eisenhower—the Red Chinese could well imagine that the speech represents the beginning of a retreat by the Democratic majority now in control of Congress. Only a few weeks ago they voted solidly to support the resolution authorizing the President to use our military force to defend Formosa and "related positions and territories of that area." Is "bipartisanship" to be spelled differently now, with divisive speeches by partisans at a time of grave crisis in international affairs?

There are, of course, differences of opinion here and abroad over the extent to which the "related areas"—namely, the offshore islands—shall be defended. But the issue was thoroughly debated in Congress, and it would seem that Mr. Stevenson now is merely accentuating a difference that has already been resolved. For the Congress was informed that there was no intention on the part of the President to defend the offshore islands as such, but to defend them "only in situations which are recognizable as parts of, or definite preliminaries to, an attack" on Formosa. This has been made clear to members of Congress on the Democratic side, and especially to Senator Walter George, Democratic chairman of the Senate foreign relations committee. But now it would appear that Mr. Stevenson has publicly repudiated the leadership of the Georgia senator and prefers to go it alone in proclaiming what he believes should be the foreign policy of the Democratic party.

NOT OUR CHOICE

Mr. Stevenson, moreover, calls for a declaration by the Allied nations condemning the use of force in and around Formosa. This is predicated on the assumption that the Red Chinese will likewise refrain from using force. Senator George favors the renunciation of the use of force in and around Formosa, and so does President Eisenhower, who has called for a cease-fire to be arranged by the U. N. It is not Mr. Eisenhower or our Allies who can regulate whether force shall be used. Only the Red Chinese can decide whether there is to be war in the Far East. Any pronouncements about United States policy should be left to the President of the United States to make.

The speech by the former presidential candidate is full of contradictions so characteristic of many of his addresses. While, for example, he condemns the Eisenhower administration for not doing what it says, and for not meaning what it announces in its threat of "massive retaliation," Mr. Stevenson unfortunately chooses as his illustration the Allied retreat in Indo-China. For this he blames America when he ought to know that the United States backed down from the use of force there because neither the French nor the British—our allies—would go along with us. Here was a case in which Mr. Eisenhower and Mr. Dulles did precisely what Mr. Stevenson now pleads should be done—namely, adopted an attitude deferential to the wishes of our allies. But having followed our allies, America is now blamed by Mr. Stevenson for the loss of Indo-China. He certainly cannot have it both ways.

Mr. Stevenson's speech exhibits a greater concern for the feelings of the Allies than it does for the feelings of the American people. This is probably due to a desire to make it appear that in foreign policy the administration is inept and incompetent. While professing high motives himself, Mr. Stevenson accuses the administration of yielding to "considerations of domestic political expediency" in making Far Eastern policies. There are critics inside the Republican party but fortunately they have not been in favor of appeasing the Communists, and are trying instead to keep the administration from yielding to those "peace at any price" elements in the Republican party which, like Mr. Stevenson, advocate withdrawal from the offshore islands.

DESTROYS MORALE

Mr. Stevenson would, of course, wash his hands of any responsibility if the policy he advocates were really adopted. If, for example, after the United States withdrew moral support from the Nationalist government and a disintegration of morale developed on Formosa among the troops of Chiang Kai-shek—which Mr. Stevenson now significantly derides as "over-age"—the titular leader of the Democratic party probably would not concede that, by his speech and proposals, he had helped to break down the morale of the Nationalist troops on Formosa, just as the Truman-Acheson administration did in pulling the rug from beneath Chiang Kai-shek's forces on the mainland of China in 1949. There Is More To Life Than Money, Says Polio's Dr. Salk

PITTSBURGH —(NEA)—Behind the desperate and ponderous race to wipe out paralytic polio stands the man who has given most of his professional career and his name to what may be an effective vaccine—Dr. Jonas E. Salk.

It has not been an easy job. It has not been the most satisfying. It has not made a fortune for anybody. But it has led Dr. Salk to conclude:

"There is more in life than money."

His career proves it. In 1931, when he was 17 years old, Jonas Salk entered the College of the City of New York. He hadn't a single course in science in high school. He didn't know anything about it.

Out of curiosity he enrolled in several introductory science courses. That sealed his future. By the time he was graduated he had abandoned his old ambitions of a career in law.

He went to New York University's medical school. He was a small fellow, with dark hair and a high forehead and a hungry look behind his eyeglasses. He told them he wanted to become a doctor. And after that he wanted to go into research.

They said he was foolish. They said times were bad and he ought to practice medicine and make money. They said research took a lifetime and left no time for family or rest.

By the time he was a senior medical student, he had found himself. Or rather, Dr. Thomas Francis, Jr., had found him working late into the night at the laboratory.

What was so interesting to the young man? Dr. Francis asked. The answer was simple: Dr. Jonas E. Salk was learning about viruses.

He was graduated from New York University and went into internship at Mt. Sinai Hospital. He was a practicing doctor.

Within four years he was writing to Dr. Francis who had gone to the University of Michigan. Was there a place there for his former student? He didn't need much money. He and his wife could live simply. But the laboratory—that was the important thing.

Dr. Francis called him, told him that he had a March of Dimes grant from the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis. They were working on isolating the polio virus. There was a job open.

Five years later, in 1947, Dr. Salk left Ann Arbor for the University of Pittsburgh. His post: Associate Research Professor in Bacteriology.

Today, he sits in the professor's chair and also holds down the job of Director of the Virus Research Laboratory at the University's School of Medicine.

Most of his time has been spent on work in the polio virus area. In the past six years he has seen $1,700,000 spent on infantile paralysis research. He has also seen 1,800,000 children take part in controlled experiments using the vaccine he and his associates have discovered.

He doesn't see much of his family. The three children go to school early in the morning and are asleep long before he comes home at night.

He talks with his wife over a late cup of coffee and at breakfast. But she is usually fast asleep in the pre-dawn hours when he gets up to scribble an idea or formula that has come to him.

DR. SALK AND PATIENT: "Time will take care of the rest."

For the rest of the time, he is in the laboratory.

How does it feel to know that an untired vaccine—that bear, your name—is being injected into thousands of children?

"The worrying is done ahead of time," Dr. Salk says, "while calculating all the possible risks. Then the die is cast and there is nothing to do but wait. Time will take care of the rest."

The problem of the vaccine is far more urgent and mammoth: "Is it going to protect children against naturally-occurring polio?"

CLEVELAND —(NEA)—When the smoke and soot's a-blowing over city and town, the populace may be pumping nylon stockings into their lungs. Or vitamin pills.

The American Steel & Wire Division of U. S. Steel has just completed a five-year rebuilding program of its coke and coal chemical plant here. In the process they've nudged the Chemical Age along a step.

Not only will Cleveland's air be less polluted, but countless children will play with toys which otherwise would have gone to the four winds. The charms of womanly beauty will be enhanced many times over by the fumes which could have been a health menace.

Myriad are the useful things which come from a lump of coal. To make steel, endless quantities of fierce-burning coke are needed. Coke is just coal with the more easily burned gases out of it.

But what gases? When men began to get a clear glimpse of what chemistry meant, they saw that annoying smoke contained the building blocks by which many useful things could be made.

Creosote to preserve wood and tar for roads and roofs have long been with us. But as the structure of molecules was tinkered with strange new products came out of the long wasted fumes that result when coal is burned.

There are the miracle fabrics which improve on nature's own, that wear longer and resist wrinkling. Plastics came. They range from gossamer, plant tissues to the toughies that rival the strength of metal.

The detergents were made possible by the fumes. The glue which makes plywood the giant it is in building, as well. Insulation for wires, molded cabinets for TV sets, water-proofing for clothing, fertilizer to make crops grow, synthetic rubber, dyes, DDT and other insecticides, lacquers—all were there.

There were others, ranging from essences for beguiling perfumes to deadly TNT.

And for the well-being of mankind came drugs—the sulfas, vitamins, aspirin and saccharin among them.

U. S. Steel says the end is not yet. "There is a promise of a vast, unrealized potential of things, now unknown, but yet to come."

By a heart-warming coincidence, the smog which was a threat to health is being made to yield chemicals which make lives longer and easier.

NEW COKE CAR means more nylons like this; smog contains chemicals that help make them.

Edson In Washington

By PETER EDSON

(NEA Washington Correspondent)

WASHINGTON—(NEA)—A blistering attack on the way the U. S. "Point Four" Technical Cooperation program has been kicked around Washington, with four reorganizations in the last five years, has just been issued by a committee of 25 American businessmen and civic leaders in National Planning Association. NPA is a non-partisan, non-profit research organization of highest respectability.

Its latest, interim report on Technical Cooperation Administration—TCA—is particularly timely. The Foreign Operations Administration under Gov. Harold Stassen, which has been responsible for TCA the past two years, is due to go out of business June 30.

Unless drastic action is taken within the next few months, many U. S. technical assistance programs in some 50 underdeveloped foreign countries may also come to an end.

TECHNICAL ASSISTANCE TO foreign countries is frequently considered a part of military aid, economic aid, loans and grants to undeveloped areas. TCA is entirely separate from such programs. It involves the sharing of knowledge and technical skills—the sending of American experts to the backward countries to help them raise their own standard of living, often at their own expense.

In contrast to the multi-billion dollar foreign aid programs, TCA cost $107 million in 1954, $116 million this year. It is considered almost impossible to spend any more on it, or any faster, because experts can't be recruited for more projects. Today there are 360 vacancies for Latin-America alone, out of a total authorized staff of 800.

"The government of the United States has been changing its mind about the answers so frequently," says the NPA critics, that we are "baffling and confusing the foreign governments with whom we wish to cooperate."

The NPA report lambasts both the Truman and Eisenhower administrations. "When the TCA program was administered by the State Department from 1950 to 1953 it was severely shackled and could not operate effectively."

AS A CLASSIC EXAMPLE OF how technical cooperation has been kicked around in the present administration, it is revealed that the Foreign Operations Administration and the State Department took from July to December, 1954, to allocate $175,000 for Latin-American projects. By this time the fiscal year was half over and the work was set back that much.

With FOA apparently doomed to die this June 30, it is now proposed to transfer TCA back to the State Department. This is in spite of the fact that Secretary of State John Foster Dulles has said repeatedly that he does not want operating responsibilities in his department.

Taking advantage of this opening, the National Planning Association recommends several proposals for getting the train back on the track.

One proposal is to organize the entire program as a government corporation. This would permit the organization to run its own show, making quick decisions for action programs free from interdepartmental red tape tangles.

THIS WOULD BE IN LINE with the experience gained by the Institute of Inter-American Affairs. IIAA was organized during the war by the Nelson Rockefeller group to deal with internal agricultural health and education developments in Latin-America.

Congress recently extended the IIAA charter as a government corporation until 1960. It has worked effectively while ECA, MSA and FOA have successively had their troubles.

While the initial technical assistance pioneering was in Latin-America, it has been extended all over the free world. In the last few years major emphasis has been on Middle East development. For the immediate future, the Eisenhower administration would apparently like to make a major effort in Southeast Asia, to save it from communism.

Congress will have this whole problem tossed in its lap soon, when the White House sends to Congress its recommendations for the foreign aid program for next year.

Chairman of the special policy committee making the NPA report is Laird Bell, prominent Chicago lawyer.

Try And Stop Me By BENNETT CERF

There's a society girl in New York who's so nearsighted she once mistook Herman Hickman for a taxicab. At a swanky dinner party the butler discreetly handed her a note from the hostess, which she turned over to Lord Doodlesworth on her left, beseeching, "Won't you read this for me, Your Lordship? I seem to have something in my eye this evening." His Lordship obligingly opened the note and read, "Be a darling, and talk a bit to Lord Doodlesworth. I know he's a bit of a bore, but we're counting on being asked to his estate in England next summer."

The Doctor Says...
Acute Respiratory Infections
Should Be Treated Promptly

By EDWIN P. JORDAN M.D. — Written for NEA Service

"Some time ago I wrote you about my husband who had chronic bronchitis. Now I find that he has pulmonary emphysema as well and I should like to know something if the meaning of this condition." So writes Mrs. K.

In this instance it seems likely that chronic bronchitis was responsible for the emphysema. The latter is not a rare disorder, though few people seem to have heard of it. Judging by studies made after death, about one person in 20 has this condition, although probably far fewer show any symptoms from it during life.

WHAT IS EMPHYSEMA? It is basically a loss of the elasticity of the tissue of the lung, which means that all the air is not emptied out when a person exhales. Thus, when the condition is advanced, a person may not get enough air from breathing and develop shortness of breath rather easily if the need for air is increased by exercise.

There are many conditions which can lead to this loss of elasticity and dilation of the breathing cells. Any chronic infection of the lungs—chronic asthma, or a serious chest deformity, for example—can bring on emphysema comparatively early in like, although there is perhaps a tendency in all of us to have less elasticity in the lung tissues as we grow older.

IT WAS FORMERLY thought that glassblowers and musicians who play wind instruments were particularly liable to develop emphysema, but apparently this is not true. There are, however, occupational hazards which do increase the chances of developing emphysema, such as being exposed to certain kinds of poisonous dusts or jobs which lead to infection of the lungs.

There is a good deal which can be done for most victims of emphysema. One of the most important, of course, is to treat, or try to prevent, infections or allergies which are making the condition worse.

ACUTE RESPIRATORY infections should be treated promptly with bed rest and often with penicillin or one of its relatives. Drugs can be used to help improve the ventilation of the lungs, and many patients with chronic emphysema are enormously helped if they can spend the colder months in a mild climate.

Emphysema is so serious of itself, because of the complications which it can produce, that it should not be allowed to run on without receiving skilled attention.

Repairs Are Planned For Booming Big Ben

WASHINGTON — London's famed clock, Big Ben, will be overhauled this year, perhaps temporarily silencing its world-travelled voice.

Big Ben actually is the clock's 13½-ton bell that strikes the hours, heralds news broadcasts and booms a deep-throated E note over London rooftops. The clock is the faithful authority that countless Englishmen have set watches by while passing Westminster Palace, home of Britain's Parliament, the National Geographic Society says.

Big Ben's origin goes back to the flames that destroyed the Houses of Parliament in 1834. In the rebuilding, a 14-ton clock bell and four smaller quarter bells were ordered. London facilities produced the quarter bells. The casting of Big Ben — named for Sir Benjamin Hall, First Commissioner of Works in 1856 — was entrusted to a foundry at Stockton-on-Tees, 217 miles northward.

Storm Threatens Bell
Foresadowing difficulties ahead, a storm at sea almost capsized the ship bringing Big Ben to London. Then, while being tested on the Palace grounds, the bell cracked under vigorous hammer strokes. It was melted down and another bell ordered.

Finally, in 1858, the new bell was drawn by 16 white horses through thronged London streets to Westminster. This bell, the present Big Ben, developed a flaw but was retained in use.

The clock is one of the world's most accurate public timepieces. Some say it has stayed, except for a few stoppages, within four seconds of Greenwich time and has operated for weeks within one-tenth of a second. Nearly all concede that it meets the Astronomer Royal's requirement that "the King of clocks was to be the Prince of time-keepers."

Its performance, however, has been disturbed by man, bird, hunting bomb and weather. A painter's ladder propped in a wrong place and a workman's bungling hammer caused trouble. A rat's nest and 50 starlings that perched on a minute hand both disturbed its delicate balance. Once, a quarter bell failed to chime during a winter freeze.

Bomb Burst Near By
A bomb bursting on the House of Commons in May, 1941, endangered the clock. The belfry was marred and the glass of the dials damaged. Word comes down that Big Ben faithfully struck only one and a half seconds behind Greenwich time when its broadcast voice told Englishmen on far war fronts that London still stood.

The clock is enormous. Each of its four faces is more than 22 feet across; the figures are two feet long and the minute spaces a foot square. The copper minute hands are 14 feet long and each travels more than 130 miles a year. In principle, its five-ton mechanism functions like a grandfather clock, lowering and raising weights that reach almost to the ground. In former years the winding took two men five hours three times a week. Electricity now does the job.

A visitor inside the tower when Big Ben sounded its sonorous tones has recorded the sensation. It is not so much the din that is overwhelming, he said, "as the tremendous reverberation which continues to sing in one's ears long after the hour has struck."

Medics Studying Grievance Plan

HELENA, Mont. (AP) — The American Medical Assn. has been studying a Montana physician-patient grievance program as a possible pattern for wider use. The Montana Medical Assn. set up a grievance committee to hear patients' complaints. Dr. Harold W. Fuller, committee chairman reported that advance discussion of fees between the patient and his physician or surgeon would eliminate many grievances.

India Acts To Save Its Vanishing Game

WASHINGTON—Some of India's animals that charmed Rudyard Kipling and still enchant a world of readers are vanishing.

The hunting leopard or cheetah, the black buck, gazelle and one-horned rhinoceros now join other fauna in a gradual disappearance from the storied Indian landscape, the National Geographic Society says.

India, for centuries a wildlife paradise, has long felt inescapable natural forces marshaling against many of its fast growing birds. An authority some 30 years ago noted how the fast growing population was driving back the protective jungle and how disease and overhunting were taking a heavy toll.

Stricter Conservation Suggested
The Indian Board for Wild Life recently considered means to prevent extinction of many picture-sque species. In particular, opposition is increasing to profit-making safari clubs that recruit outsiders for big-game hunting.

Recommendations were for a ban on killing the malabar squirrel, Himalayan bearded wild goat, hunting leopard and the great Indian bustard, a large game bird. Protection has been asked also for the horned antelope, gazelle and black buck.

Game depletion in south India was attributed more to wandering tribes of hunters and trappers

A CLOSE MATCH

THE FOLLOWING hand accounted for victory and defeat in a team-of-four contest by a remarkably slim margin.

West dealer.
East-West vulnerable.

♠ 2	♥ K 9 4 3	♦ A 9 7 5 2	♣ A J 10 9
♠ A 10 7	♥ Q J 9 6	♦ K Q J	♣ 10
♠ N	♥ E	♦ S	♣ W
♠ Q 8 7 6 4	♥ 5 2	♦ 7 5 4 2	♣ 8 3

At one table East and West were unopposed in the auction; they easily reached and made three notrump. This, however, was the bidding at the other table:

West	North	East	South
1♣	Pass	1♠	Pass
1NT	Double	Redouble	Pass
Pass	2♣	Pass	Pass
Double	2♥	Double	2♠
Pass	Pass	Double (final bid)

From the moment that North put in his delayed double, he and his partner were obviously in trouble, even though they had a great advantage in the vulnerability.

Distributed by King Features Syndicate

West opened the club king against the doubled spade contract, and dummy won with the ace. For want of a better move, declarer then led a club from the board. West, back on lead, now played a low heart, hoping to send South astray, but South had no reasonable choice except to go up with the king, and when he led another club he was sure to win a total of four tricks. If East discarded, South would make a small trump by ruffing; and when East, to stop this, ruffed up with the nine, South discarded his last heart and could not be prevented from making two trump tricks.

The 700-point penalty East-West collected was good, comparatively, but when all the scores were totaled it was found that their team had lost the match by exactly 140 points! Thus, if East-West had beaten this hand one more trick and earned 900 points, they would have won the match by 60 points.

As it happened, East-West should have collected 900 points. When West was in with the club he should have shifted to the king and another trump, to let his partner keep on leading the suit. It was obvious that declarer was trying to bring home low trumps by ruffing. In fact, West should have opened a trump.

More Dairy Cattle, Bigger Milk Output Prospected

D.H.I.A. Testing Proves Worth Of This Program

Here is the 1955 dairy outlook in a nutshell: 1. Cow numbers will be up about 1 per cent over 1954. 2. Heifers to replace cows will be down about 5 per cent. 3. Milk production will be up due to more cows and better production per cow. 4. A larger supply of home grown grains. 5. Protein feeds equal last year's supply. 6. Roughage equals last year's supply.

All the cows in Michigan that are in a D. H. I. A. testing program averaged 9,577 pounds of milk and 374 pounds of butterfat last year. Wouldn't it be nice if we could say that all dairy cows in Michigan averaged that much? Those in the testing program are only a small percentage of the total cow population in the state. The average production for all dairy cows in Michigan is about 5,500 pounds of milk and 230 pounds of butterfat. Needless to say, cows producing less than 300 pounds of butterfat today are not making you any money. There are plenty of them around that could be culled out and replaced with better ones. A sound testing and breeding program will put you on the right road toward higher production per animal.

How much does it cost to produce 100 pounds of milk using feed as the only item. A study of records on Michigan Farms shows that it takes plenty of feed. Here it is: 52 pounds of silage; 44 pounds of hay; 30 pounds grain; and, 151 days on pasture. If you want to check on your herd, find out how many pounds of milk they produced and divide it into the pounds of silage, grain, and hay you have fed them. You can do the same for individual cows if you have sufficient records.

Have you ever thought of what could happen to farming if we could not control insects? Those little fellows could really put us on the run if our control methods failed. Take as an example corn. We have at least twenty-seven different insects that will attack corn. Any one of the twenty-seven could do a considerable amount of damage if left alone. Fortunately some spray or dust will control several different kinds of insects on a given crop.

Have you tried to set-up an operating budget for one year? Try it and see how close you are at the end of a year. In the budget, put down expenses for fertilizer, seed, machinery repair, gas and oil, and any other items which take money. Smaller items can be grouped. This will give you a picture of what your income should be.

Pasture Harmed By Spring Fire

Spring has brought with it the urge for people to burn grass. "The burning of grass as a safety measure is necessary in some cases, but the day of burning pastures to make them "green-up" is old fashioned," according to Irwin Ten Haken of the U. S. Soil Conservation Service. "Not too many years ago, farmers regularly burned their pastures thinking they were doing the right thing but in most cases the fire did more harm than good," he added.

Ten Haken pointed out that while it appears that fire hastens spring growth of grass, it actually slows it by heat damage to the crowns of alfalfa and the stems and rhizomes of grass. In addition, a hot grass fire burns some of the future organic matter of the soil by destroying the grass residue that eventually would return to the soil.

He suggested clipping old growth in pastures sometime in late fall, about the end of October rather than spring burning to reduce the amount of old and unpalatable grass. "Burning could also hasten the erosion process, especially in the hilly areas by reducing the amount of sod cover," he added.

Another crop to suffer from fires is a new crop of young pine seedlings, either natural reproduction or planted. These can be killed by one grass fire. "It is advisable to not only obtain a permit to burn, but to consider whether the fire will be a benefit or a hazard to you and the community you live in," Ten Haken concluded.

Dairy Processors To Meet At Court House Friday Afternoon

Dairy processors of the area will meet at the courthouse, 8 p. m., Friday evening. Lyle Littlefield, assistant chief, bureau of dairying, Michigan Department of Agriculture, and C. J. Little, extension dairy specialist, will be at the meeting.

Proposed dairy legislation and how legislation is enacted will be discussed by Mr. Littlefield. Jack Little will address the group on Dairy Industry Outlook. Processors from the Marquette, Menominee, and Schoolcraft areas are expected to attend.

Buy Nursery Stock With Care

Homeowners throughout Michigan will soon be buying nursery stock for landscaping. It's wise to remember that top quality nursery stock cannot be bought for ridiculously low prices any more than any other top quality product.

This is the suggestion of C. A. Boyer, who is chief of bureau plant industry for the Michigan Department of Agriculture. He says that when you're buying plants and shrubs at a nursery, check to see if you're dealing with a legitimate operator. How do you do this? One way to be safe is to ask to see the dealer's license or certificate.

Everyone selling nursery stock in Michigan is required by law to be licensed. A certificate means that the stock at this particular place of business has been inspected by department of Agriculture inspectors. And Boyer says it also means that the stock is apparently free from dangerous insects and contagious plant diseases. Nursery stock must be inspected by department men where it is growing before it can be legally moved.

Unfortunately, as Boyer indicates, there are a few operators who don't hesitate to take advantage of the homeowner. This is sometimes done with pictures that misrepresents the stock that is offered for sale. Or it may be misrepresented through misleading words about prices and grades.

NO-SCRUB WAY TO GLEAMING FLOORS

Everybody has heard of the housewife who kept her kitchen floor so clean you could eat off it.

We never met her. But we know how she did it. She did it the hard way—on her hands and knees—with a scrubbrush. Today, you can keep your linoleum or asphalt tile immaculate with only a fraction as much effort.

Just apply Glaxo, the wonderful floor coating. Its water-clear finish seals out dirt so well you can clean it in a flash. Glaxo eliminates waxing, and you put it on only about twice a year.

PITTSBURGH, Pa. (AP) — The ring around the bathtub is on its way down the drain, says Dr. H. B. Hass, president of the Sugar Research Foundation, Inc., an organization which looks for new uses for sugar and its by-products.

Hass says detergents which eliminate the bathtub ring will be on the market this summer. They're called "Sucrose Monofatty Acid Esters."

Beaver Disease, Parasite Data Sought In U. P. By 2 Scientists

Two Michigan scientists are in the western Upper Peninsula today gathering information on beaver diseases and parasites.

William H. Lawrence, Ann Arbor, research associate of the University of Michigan's department of wildlife management, and David Jenkins, Lansing, mammalogist for the Conservation Department's game division, are interviewing trappers and collecting carcasses in that area, where a heavy die-off of beavers occurred in 1953 and 1954.

Trapper Reports Requested

The beaver season, which ended in the central and eastern portions of the Northern Peninsula Wednesday, continues in five western counties (Baraga, Iron, Houghton, Ontonagon and Gogebic) to next Wednesday noon. Trappers have been asked to report any dead beavers they may find to Conservation Department personnel.

Among the matters being studied by Lawrence and Jenkins is the occurrence of a tick (Ixodes banksi) which is known to be a parasite on beaver, otter and muskrat. Trappers also were urged to report cases where they found ticks on beavers or otters.

Restricted To West End

In a report on the 1953-54

beaver die-off in Michigan, Lawrence and his co-authors stated, "Although this tick has not previously been incriminated as a vector (carrier) of tularemia, other members of the genus Ixodes are proven vectors. The field of evidence is certainly suggestive that Ixodes banksi may be involved in the transmission of tularemia and efforts are now being directed towards testing this hypothesis."

The tick appears to be restricted in Michigan to the western Upper Peninsula within the same general area in which the heavy die-off of beaver occurred in the last two years.

Tularemia Cases Confirmed

The Conservation Department began receiving reports of dead beavers following the opening of the beaver season in 1953. It became evident, Lawrence said, that an epidemic had occurred among beavers in the western Upper Peninsula. About 180 dead or sick beavers were reported during the trapping season. The east branch of the Presque Isle River in Gogebic County was the site of the greatest concentration of carcasses.

The report by Lawrence, co-authored by L. D. Fay, University of Michigan research associate, and S. A. Graham, Conservation Department pathologist, stated that, "during the trapping season three serologically confirmed cases of this disease (tularemia) occurred among . . . trappers in the Upper Peninsula. . . . With all three diagnosed cases, the trappers had found and skinned either dead or sick beavers. Thus this evidence . . . was highly suggestive that tularemia was responsible, at least in part, for beaver mortality."

Muskies Also Affected

The report continues: "Field studies made during the summer of 1953 by the authors showed that die-off was still in progress. It appeared that muskrats were also being affected as carcasses of these animals were found in a flowage where the beavers had died. . . ."

"Prior to the beaver trapping season in 1954, plans were made with the Conservation Department for the prompt collection of any fresh beaver carcasses that might be found. Beaver mortality did occur but it did not assume proportions of the previous year. . . . During both years, beaver die-off was restricted largely to the west end of the Upper Peninsula, although several dead beavers were found in Alger and Schoolcraft Counties. . . ."

First Records In State

"In addition to those beaver carcasses reported from the Upper Peninsula in 1954, one dead beaver was found in the central portion of the Lower Peninsula in Gladwin County. Examination of this beaver by the writers disclosed lesions suggestive of tularemia. Also one carcass found near Wakefield in Gogebic County (by Arnie Wimplo of Wakefield) showed similar symptoms. . . . Tularemia was isolated in both instances. . . . These are the first records of tularemia in beavers for the state. . . ."

"The distribution of the current epizootic (wildlife epidemic) in the Upper Peninsula forms a scattered and discontinuous pattern if plotted on a map. Beaver colonies along certain streams were entirely wiped out while colonies on other streams were unaffected. In one instance we found that a colony of two or three animals was destroyed while other colonies on the same stream located above and below it were unaffected. . . ."

"The overall effect of the epizootic has thus far not been disastrous to the beaver population in the Upper Peninsula. Some local concentrations of beavers have been destroyed. However, in many of these areas declines could be expected even without the disease as a result of the rapidly diminishing supply of food. Observations made during the summer of 1954 showed that beavers were beginning to recolonize flowages that had remained unpopulated since the spring of 1953. Ground and aerial surveys made by game division personnel during the fall of 1954 indicated that beavers were still very abundant and the decision was made to permit trapping in 1955 in spite of the epizootic."

Spring Roster Has 15 Added Bird Species

MARQUETTE — Fifteen species of birds were added last week to the spring arrival listed being compiled by a group of observers in Marquette.

Species and the dates the birds were first reported were:

Tree sparrow, song sparrow and grackle, April 5; red-winged blackbird, phoebe and marsh hawk, April 8; winter wren, kingfisher, bufflehead and flicker, April 9; sparrow hawk, cowbird and vesper sparrow, April 10, and migrant shrike and great blue heron, April 11.

Swift, Allen, Woerpel At MUCC Meet In Esky

ESCANABA — Three nationally known wildlife authorities will speak at the 18th annual Michigan United Conservation Clubs convention which is expected to attract 600 MUCC delegates and guests here June 16 to 19.

The speakers will be Ernest D. Swift, Dr. Durward L. Allen and Les Woerpel.

Former Wisconsin Director

Swift is the former director of the Wisconsin Conservation Department and is now assistant director of the U. S. Fish & Wildlife Service. He will speak on his wide experience in the field of fish, game and sportsmen's clubs.

Dr. Allen, now professor of wildlife management at the University of Purdue, after having begun his conservation career with the Michigan Department of Conservation, will speak on predator control and special game management features.

Baby-Sitting Service

Woerpel is executive secretary of the Wisconsin Federation of Sportsmen's Clubs and an outstanding crusader for good conservation who has received awards for his services to Wisconsin sportsmen and the public. His topics will be his experiences in the conservation field and a comparison of Wisconsin deer and other game management programs with that of Michigan.

Jim Rouman, Escanaba, regional MUCC vice-president, has announced that a baby-sitting service will be available for delegates and guests who have small children. This feature, he said, will permit grown-ups to attend convention and social activities with the assurance that their children will be well cared-for.

Beginners' Luck

Drawing their inspiration from a conservation program at the John D. Pierce School in Marquette, these two youngsters decided to try their hand at trapping during the Easter vacation and came in with this otter on their very first attempt. The boys are Terry Borg (left), Trowbridge Park, and Jerry Kelley, Marquette. The otter measured 42 inches in length. —(Northern Peninsula Outdoors photo.)

U. P. Game, Fish Seen As Major Resources

MUNISING — Great opportunities for area development, based largely on game and fish resources, were predicted for the Upper Peninsula by Dr. Richard L. Weaver, associate professor of conservation at the University of Michigan.

Speaking before several groups in the eastern and central Upper Peninsula this week on "The U. P. Outdoors to 2,000 A. D.," Dr. Weaver said hunting and fishing are two of the area's important tourist attractions and told his listeners that these resources are tied in closely with the economic future of the region.

Straits Bridge Factor

"The time is coming when more people with longer vacations and better transportation are going to be scouting across that (Straits) bridge" to hunt and fish in the Upper Peninsula, the professor stated. He said residents of the Northern Peninsula, although they might somewhat resent this future influx of vacationists, must be mindful of the financial gain that will accrue from the increased tourist traffic above the Straits.

Dr. Weaver stated that areas like the Upper Peninsula must find some means to make more money within the area and that the hunting and fishing attractions offered one way to accomplish this. By the same token, he said, involved in the transmission of tularemia and efforts are now being directed towards testing this hypothesis."

Cooperative Pike Eggs Program Set

Wisconsin and Michigan Conservation Departments again this spring will cooperate in an attempt to obtain Muskellunge and northern pike eggs.

It is hoped that 10 quarts each of the musky and northern pike will be taken from fish to be netted from Lac Vieux Desert when weather permits, according to Jim Sealy, Marquette regional supervisor of the fish division.

The northern pike eggs will be taken to the Watersmeet Hatchery and later transferred to Lower Michigan hatcheries. Muskellunge eggs will be taken to the Woodruff Hatchery in Wisconsin for hatching and later transferred to Michigan hatcheries. Any eggs taken over the 10-quart quota will be transferred to the downstate Dayton Plains hatchery.

Muskellunge eggs taken last year failed to hatch because of difficulties encountered in their transfer, Sealy said.

Munuscong Scholarship Aid Totals $200 In MUCC Grant

Officers of Michigan United Conservation Clubs today announced grants-in-aid to teacher scholarships for the Munuscong Conservation Laboratory in Chippewa County where conservation and wildlife summer teacher courses are conducted by Northern Michigan College of Education.

The grants will consist of four of $50 each. They will be given by George Butler, NMCE conservation instructor, under a plan of application and merit which he will determine. Inquiries should be directed to him at the college in Marquette.

MUCC, through its affiliation with the National Wildlife Federation, received a grant-in-aid for such purposes to which it adds its own matching funds and then offers the scholarships. Previously, all such had been offered only to Lower Michigan schools and teachers through courses at the University of Michigan and Michigan State College. This year, and in future years, one third of the amount will be allocated to Upper Peninsula teachers through NMCE's fine teacher workshop at Munuscong.

These grants are a result of various discussions Butler has had with officials of MUCC on educational projects and the desire of MUCC to aid the Upper Peninsula as much as possible, according to Harry R. Gaines, Grand Rapids, secretary-manager of MUCC.

Trap Season Big Event For 'Stique Trio

MANISTIQUE — Beaver trapping season is the big event of the year for a trio of Manistique residents and a man from downstate Kingsley.

With a trailer to live in, a jeep to travel the trail roads when they are at their worst, a canoe to run the rivers and a big enough party to share housekeeping, tending traps and pelting, they follow the seasons.

Team Includes 81-Year-Old

This year they spent the March 20-March 31 season on the Manistique River in the Lower Peninsula and checked in at conservation headquarters in Traverse City for the official sealing of 12 perfectly handled beaver pelts and one otter. Then they took off for the Upper Peninsula season, which ended last Wednesday in the east and central part of the peninsula and extends to next Wednesday in the western part.

Members of the team are Axel Peterson, 81-year-old Manistique resident; Mr. and Mrs. Cameron Coe, both also of Manistique; and Leon K. Wheat, Kingsley.

Quick Shots

A 310-pound sturgeon taken recently in Lake Erie equalled in weight the Great Lakes record for that species, a seven-foot, six-inch giant taken in Batchawana Bay of Lake Superior by Frank LaPointe in 1922. Bill Berry took the Lake Erie whopper, which was six feet long, on a minnow after a three-hour struggle.

Lake Superior last year yielded 1,600,000 pounds of lake trout, compared with only 85 pounds from Lake Michigan and none from Lake Huron. All species considered, Lake Michigan led Great Lakes production with 14,200,000 pounds of fish, followed by Lake Superior with 5,800,000 pounds, Lake Huron with 5,400,000 pounds and Lake Erie with 1,800,000 pounds.

Henry Freytag, a beaver trapper from Newberry, captured an eight-pound kit beaver recently at Pruess Lake in Luce County. He brought the beaver to the Newberry district office of the Conservation Department because he believed the beaver too small to pelt and was afraid the animal might be caught in one of his traps in Pruess Lake. The beaver is now in good hands at the Cusino Experiment Station at Shingleton.

The story of how the average person's share of living, working and recreation space in Michigan has been slowly shrinking as the state's population expands will be unfolded in the "Michigan Conservation" television show on WBAY-TV, Green Bay, at 3:45 p. m. Saturday.

Deer Yard Evaluation Plan Tested

SHINGLETON — Biologists at the Cusino Wildlife Experiment Station here are experimenting with a new technique for evaluating deer yards.

Known as the Hepburn-Passmore method, the technique was originated in Canada in 1951, but this is the first year the system has been available for use in the United States. For the past two or three years, the Aldous browse survey method has been employed by the Cusino staff for deer yard evaluations.

Cusino staff members set up an experiment to determine which of the two techniques is best suited to game management in terms of practicality and accurate appraisal of conditions of yards.

Comparison Of System

The Aldous method is a visual measurement, while an actual count of browse stems is employed in the Hepburn-Passmore technique.

The Aldous system reveals the average density of species, the average degree of browsing, a utilization factor (how much of a species available is utilized), percentage of actual food eaten and how much browse is available to deer.

Information yielded from the Hepburn-Passmore system includes a frequency index (uniformity of distribution of species), number of living stems per acre (a measure of the productivity of the browse), the effect of past deer use on the area, the effect of current deer use, relative availability of food in the area and the percentage of the total diet contributed by any single plant species to deer.

Bittersweet Notes

Dear Sir:

A few weeks ago a picture was printed on the Outdoor Page of a Marquette boy holding two twisted limbs or vines under the caption "What Is It?"

They look very much like a bittersweet vine my mother grew some years ago. It twists around itself until it reaches the branches of a tree. It will finally choke the life out of the tree. The underbark is usually orange.

Yours truly,

To the Editor:

Recently I received in the mail a series of pamphlets from the Conservation Department pertaining to the problems of deer management. Much of the data attempts to answer questions put to the department by sportsmen groups and the answers are designed to strengthen the department's cause for discretionary power in deer management.

The pamphlets are well written and the authors present a strong argument for discretionary power. There is no doubt in my mind that the game biologists sincerely feel they are on the right track, and they are an able body of scientists. I also feel they have presented an accurate picture for those areas where they have made intensive studies. It appears they have concentrated heavily in the Lower Peninsula, but have left the fact-finding job in the U. P. up to the thinly scattered game area managers who have several counties to cover. I feel this seriously weakens the department's stand in the Upper Peninsula.

It seems that whenever a discussion of the deer question ensues between a department employee and a sportsman, each is speaking on different terms. The game man speaks in terms of the whole state, or whole peninsulas, while the sportsman is limited in his knowledge to some smaller specific area.

The sportsman feels that the conservation people, in asking for discretionary power to thin out the female deer herd, are merely trying to provide a poor remedy for some very bad judgment in the past. He went along with the Legislature to earmark a certain part of his deer license fee for the purpose of purchasing deer yards. He provided the tool for the job when he was shown that deer yards were a necessity to perpetuate the species. Now, what happened to that earmarked money? The individual cannot speak with clarity for other parts of the state, but here in Marquette County — the Escanaba River State Game Area, to be precise — certain actions of the Conservation Department kept the sportsmen in almost constant disagreement with state game practices.

The recently published game pamphlets deplore the sad fact that steps were not taken 20 years ago to thin the doe deer herd. Yet, the means were at hand to provide winter range even at that date. Fifteen years ago, in 1940, a timber owner operating in Turin Township offered a clear tract of cedar timber to the state for purchase as a deer yard.

The area had been mapped and designated by state game experts as a deer yard comprising several hundred acres. The stand was varying in age growth so there was more than ample feed for the hundreds of deer wintering there. Since the offer was turned down, the owner had no other recourse but to clear-cut the stand in order to get out his investment, but he was quite disgusted with the short-sightedness of the experts. In 1946 the area was again looked over by state men to check the boundaries of the deer yard for accuracy and (it was) discovered the yard no longer existed. One could see across row on row of stumps for a half mile where once had been one of the best cedar swamps in the area.

What happened to the deer license money? Some of it was spent to purchase a few sections of cut-over hardwood forests to provide access to the area by the hunters and for summer range for the deer. The original dedicated area of the Escanaba River Area comprised nearly one third of jack pine plains. Much of the other two-thirds is merely summer range. Many land exchanges and sales of land within the area have taken place since then, and one wonders if any money has been spent of the earmarked money to acquire cedar swamps for winter range?

These random samples of questionable discretion on the part of game men made in the past scarcely breeds confidence in the sportsman that the present biologists and experts will exercise any better judgment with a legislative act giving them discretionary power to do as they please with the management of the deer herd. And even though the indiscriminate cutting which went on in the Escanaba River Tract under the supervision of the game division has been now corrected by giving the state foresters authority to practice good timber management, the sportsman is still loath to hand over the reins to those who now wish to provide a poor remedy for some very bad indiscretions of the past.

The recently published pamphlets take pains to acquaint the reader with the fact that a large part of the state's cedar yards are privately owned. Yet nowhere in all of the biologists' reports and plans for deer herd management is there even a hint that perhaps the solution lies in the state ownership of every cedar swamp, regardless of where it is within the state's borders, for the sole purpose of controlling the cedar supply for winter range for the deer. Everyone is agreed that if there was enough cedar browse for the vast deer herd there would be no necessity to reduce the herd to fit the size of the range. Everyone is agreed there is a shortage of bucks in range to the army of hunters. The game men insist the hunter must content himself with the hunting of does and fawns in order to enjoy his sport and be happy if he should get an occasional buck. His pamphlet tells us we must reduce the doe and fawn ratio to keep them from eating all of the diminishing supply of cedar.

The sportsman says: Take the money from the earmarked deer license fund and use it as it was intended. Purchase every cedar swamp where deer range in winter, regardless of where it lies. Send your biologists, game managers, fire personnel, conservation officers and foresters into the woods with their compasses in the winter and locate every cedar swamp, state and privately owned. Map and estimate the timber contents of the swamps for future sustained yields to harvest mature timber and to keep the young shoots growing. Estimate the quantity of food available against the deer herd it must sustain and then, and only then, will it be known if the doe and fawn deer must be reduced in numbers.

Debunks Balance

To the Editor:

In reply to Mr. Martin Hansen's letter on our bounty system. He sure doesn't think and talk like an instructor. Or maybe he has to agree with his superior officers. Who preach such things.

I sum up his words like this. Nature will balance things. Well, I sure disagree. Man has sure been giving Mother Nature a sound thrashing for years, which isn't so good. And it will get worse, I am sure. Nature cannot balance things anymore. Anyone who thinks so is wrong.

The hunters are getting thicker and thicker every year. The game is outnumbered before daylight comes the first morning of any hunting season. With predators and hunters closing in on our game it will soon be depleted. If bounty comes off, then the hunting seasons should be closed. It is only common sense. Our game is being depleted alarmingly fast. So don't try kidding anyone.

And about money waste. I can sure show where it is wasted a lot more than paying bounty. I can go into this matter quick if you want me to. As to Mr. Bennett and his $5 bounty money on bobcats, he sure earns his $5 on every killer cat he traps. They are our worst killers in the woods. I sure know.

Bobcats and coyotes kill deer. I have seen this evidence a quite a few times. And our black bear will kill fawn deer in the spring. Maybe that also will surprise you. I am in the woods all my spare time. Not in an office or park.

No one works harder or has more expenses than a bounty trapper. He gets most of his profit by the sport and just being out in the woods. So forget about Nature balancing things. She hasn't a chance.

WHIP SNAKE FASTEST

Snakes can travel fast but only in spurts and not for long. The fastest snake in the United States, the western whip snake, crawls at scarcely more than three miles an hour and when hunting prowls at a quarter of a mile per hour.

Soo Line Wants To Remove Spur

The Soo Line Railroad is making application for permission to abandon a spur track known as Siding R-358, it was learned yesterday.

It is the intention of the railroad, if the application is approved, to retire and remove the spur, which parallels a portion of the so-called Rapid River branch of the Soo Line.

The spur was used at one time when business on the branch was heavy to allow the passing of trains. Today it is no longer needed, the railroad believes.

Persons having any objection to removal of the spur track may communicate with the Michigan Public Service Commission.

Holy Name and Rock high schools were among the basketball tournament cites recently commended by the Upper Peninsula Sports Writers Association for excellent facilities to working newspapermen. Letters of appreciation were sent by the Association to the tournament hosts that helped the writers in the difficult job of getting good coverage during the tournaments to newspaper readers. Other schools commended were Michigan Tech, Sault Ste. Marie and Ironwood.

Boulah Groos picked up the 9-10-7 split and Marie Knaut the 5-8-10 in K. C. Monday (9) League play this week.

There will be a lot of dead-ends on hand in Iron River this weekend. The 15th annual Upper Michigan indoor rifle and pistol tournament will be conducted there with teams from throughout the Peninsula and Northern Wisconsin taking part.

Munising is the most productive town in the Upper Peninsula when it comes to track and field records. The Munising Mustangs own six individual U. P. all-time records in the spring sport. Escanaba athletes have two records, George Shomin's 21-foot broad jump in 1941 and an 11-7 pole vault by John Prokos in 1951.

Jack Magnusen has had more than the normal amount of success in his five years as Escanaba High School's golf coach. Jack's teams have won three straight Class B Upper Peninsula golf tournaments and the two previous years were runners-up. In addition to winning the U. P. title for the third straight year last season, the Eskymos lost only once during regular season competition.

Magnusen is a graduate of Marinette High School and White-water State Teachers College in Whitewater, Wis. Incidentally, he helped a former Upper Peninsula coach, Jim Crummey who was at Iron River in the late 1930's, while at Whitewater. Crummey was coach of the Whitewater High School team at the time.

Hoeft Shelled From Mound In First; Tigers Lose 5-3

By JOE FALLS

DETROIT (AP)—Faint murmurs of "same old Billy Hoeft" could be heard around Briggs Stadium today following the Detroit Tigers' first game of the season at home. The 22-year-old southpaw, who insists he has reformed, failed to survive the first inning Thursday as the Tigers dropped their home opener to the Cleveland Indians, 5-3, before 42,684 fans. Said He'd Changed Hoeft, who admitted he broke training rules last season, said in spring training that he would settle down to serious business this year and become a winning pitcher for the first time in his career. Set Plans For Opening Of Escanaba Golf Club

With the pro shop and course opening tomorrow and the opening dinner-dance slated for Saturday, May 7, plans for the 1955 season were discussed at a meeting of the Escanaba Golf Club board of directors at the Elks Club last night. E. G. Bennett, who was elected president to fill the unexpired term of Paul A. Wohlen, president, Wohlen resigned to accept a position in Colorado that will keep him away from Escanaba for at least this summer. Paul Snyder succeeds John R. Arnold as secretary-treasurer. Dr. Vernon K. Johnson was appointed to fill Wohlen's unexpired term as director. James J. McNicoll will again serve as club professional. It will be his second season here. Other personnel employed for the 1955 season are Kenneth Van Effen, greenskeeper; Rodney Williams, assistant greenskeeper; Ronnie LaLonde, bartender; Sophie Perow, dining room, and Gary Ericson, caddiemaster. The 1955 budget was presented by Wohlen, and a report on the current membership drive was made by Co-Chairman Briton J. Hall. A committee composed of Russell Lee, Mrs. C. W. Benzinger, James G. Ward, Jr., chairman, and Snyder, Hall and McNicoll was named to publish the 1955 club booklet. It will be printed and distributed by the first week of May. In attendance last night were James R. Fitzharris, George Douglas, Dr. K. F. Harrington, Mrs. Benzinger, Wohlen, Hall, Snyder, Lee, Ward, McNicoll and Bennett.

Ask Babe Ruth Players To Sign Up For Season

The Escanaba Babe Ruth League baseball program will begin preliminary organization for the coming season when all boys who played in the Babe Ruth League program and all newcomers who want to play ball this year between the ages of 13 and 15 are asked to sign up. Players may sign up with Art Petersen at Club 314 starting Saturday afternoon, April 16 from 1 to 4 and Monday through Friday from 3:30 to 5. The deadline has been set for May 6 when all the boys between the ages of 13 through 15 who want to play Babe Ruth League ball must be signed up. All boys graduating from the Little League baseball program are invited to register.

It is the desire of league officials to again organize 6 teams with 90 boys playing baseball. Boys are asked to turn in uniforms issued last year when signing up. Any boy who does not turn in his uniform will not be allowed to sign. A nominal fee of 50c will be charged each boy when signing. This money is used for the annual baseball picnic that is held at Pioneer Trail Park at the close of the baseball season. The picnic is usually attended by over 250 boys in the Little League, Bath Ruth League and Recreation leagues program. The officials of the Babe Ruth League urge every boy who wants to play ball and is 13 through 15 years of age to sign up by May 6. Teams in the program last year were: A. F. L. Union, L&R Sport Shop, Elks Club, Kiwanis Club, Escanaba Insurance Association and Escanab Paper Co.

Rapid River Places Three On All-Central Cage Team

The Rapid River Rockets dominated the 1955 all-league team announced at the ninth annual Central League banquet held at Rock High School gymnasium last night. Coach Roger Carlson landed three of his Rapid River Rockets on the team that is selected by players on an all-opponent basis. Eight players are selected to the all-league squad. Nahma placed two stars on the team, Rock, Trenary and Eben one each.

Rapid River players who gained berths on the squad are Bob Hamilton, Jay Huff and Bob Olson. Nahma placed Bernard Newhouse and Elmer Seymour, Rock landed Terry Hade, Trenary put Jim Debelak on the team and Eben was represented by Ed Heribacka.

Rock Team Honored Announcement of the all-league team by Central League president W. J. McClintock highlighted one of the most successful banquets in the league's history. Also honored were members of the Rock High School Little Giants who won the Central League championship with a string of 14 straight wins against league competition. Coach Bob Pelkie accepted the title trophy on behalf of the Little Giants. Charles E. Forsythe, state director of high school athletics, addressed the banquet guests who included coaches, cheerleaders and faculty members of the seven conference schools. Commends Central League Forsythe, who has been MHSAA director for 26 years, gave an inspirational speech in which he highly commended the Central League officials for paying tribute to all players and coaches in the league, winners and losers alike. The state prep director pointed out that the Upper Peninsula could well be proud of its basketball record this season. "You in the U. P. won 60 per cent of the state basketball championships with only 10 percent of the schools that compete in the state tournaments," he explained. Upper Peninsula teams won three of the five state championships in the 1954-55 campaign, Houghton winning in Class C, Mass in Class D and Trout Creek in Class E. Forsythe described the structure of the Michigan High School Athletic Association and explained its purpose and aims. He introduced George Weingartner of Rock and Walter Peters of Rapid River, members of the Upper Peninsula Athletic Committee, and paid high tribute to the two men for their work in high school sports. Coach of Year Speaks He pointed out the many advantages derived from participation in prep athletic programs, from the so-called major sports to the minor activities, and emphasized the importance of athletics on development of character and the competitive American way of life. Also speaking briefly to the audience were John Gaffney, Houghton's U. P. Coach of the Year; Bruce Warren, coach of the Trout Creek Anglers, and John Wilson, former Mass coach who attended in the absence of Coach Leno Colla. Gaffney told of the fine reception his Houghton team received downtown and described winning the state Class C championship as "something I and the players will remember the rest of our lives." Movies of the C and D championship games at East Lansing's Jensen Field House were shown. The banquet dinner was prepared by the mothers of the Rock P.T.A. Dancing and a social hour followed the program. Norman Slough of Rapid River, Central League secretary, announced the following all-time League records: (only league games included). 1—Highest team score, single game, 98 points by Rapid River on Dec. 4, 1954, against Bark River.

2—Lowest team score, single game, 14 points by Rapid River in 1948 in game with Eben. 3—Highest total points, both teams, 161 points on Jan. 25, 1955, as Rapid River beat Perkins 92-69. 4—Lowest total points, both teams, 37 points in 1947 as Rapid River beat Nahma 21-16. 5—Fewest fouls, one team, in game, 5 by Rock in 1947 game with Nahma. 6—Most fouls, one team, in game, 34 by Rapid River in 1955 game with Trenary. 7—Fewest total fouls, both teams, in game, 15 in 1947 game between Rock and Nahma and 15 in 1947 game between Rapid River and Eben. 8—Most total fouls, both teams, in game, 55 in 1955 game between Rapid River (29) and Perkins (26). 9—Highest individual scoring, one game, 47 points by Waldon Johnson, Rapid River, against Eben in 1954 game. 10—Highest individual season scoring, 30.8 points per game by Waldon Johnson, Rapid River, in 1953-54, with 370 points in 12 games. 11—Highest team season average, 88.5 points per game by Rapid River in 1954-55, with 966 points in 12 games. 12—Longest consecutive winning streak, 20 games by Rapid River in 1949 and 1950. 13—Longest consecutive losing streak, 11 games by Eben in 1953-54.

Red Wings Win 3-1 To Grab Stanley Cup For Second Straight Year

By JOE FALLS

DETROIT (AP)—The Detroit Red Wings reigned today as supreme rulers of the hockey world for the second straight season—and all because Alex Delvecchio didn't like living in the "doghouse."

The 23-year-old center from Fort William, Ont., — demoted and slapped on the wrist in midseason — triggered two big goals last night to lead the Red Wings to a 3-1 victory over the Montreal Canadiens for the Stanley Cup championship.

It was a brilliant victory for the Red Wings, coming on top of their seventh straight National Hockey League title.

Seventh Stanley Cup Floyd Curry tallied the lone Montreal tally. The victory gave the Red Wings possession of the Stanley Cup for the seventh time, tying the mark set by the Toronto Maple Leafs.

General Manager Jack Adams and coach Jimmy Skinner made no secret of what they thought of Delvecchio's play in the early part of the season. They gave him a tongue-lashing, dropped him as center between Gordie Howe and Ted Lindsay—Detroit's big guns—and put him on the so-called third line. Seven Playoff Goals That seemed to ignite the crew-cut Delvecchio, who played solid hockey during the closing weeks of the season, then capped his "come-back" with seven goals in the playoffs. Delvecchio scored Detroit's first goal on a sizzling backhand at 7:12 of the second period. After Gordie Howe made it 2-0 at 19:49 of the same session, Delvecchio closed out the Red Wings' scoring with a clear breakaway goal at 2:59 of the final period. Spoiled Shutout The Canadiens, who have lost every "clutch" game to Detroit in the last two seasons, spoiled goalie Terry Sawchuk's shutout with less than eight minutes to go — but it was small consolation to the team which was supposed to overpower the league this season and end the Red Wings' domination. The Frenchmen, of course, were still playing without their suspended star, Maurice (Rocket) Richard. His presence in the lineup undoubtedly would have added more punch to the Montreal attack, but whether it would have been enough to overcome Detroit's balanced team power is problematical.

Cubs Win Third Straight To Keep Lead In National

The Associated Press
If Stan Hack, the smiling man who manages the Chicago Cubs, could figure a way to make his guys full-fledged campaigners instead of first-week wonders he might be cracking that April grin come September.

The Cubs haven't challenged since 1946, but they're leading the league today, unbeaten in three games and banging out base hits by the dozen. It's a springtime madness Hack seems to instill in his lads.

Hack took over just before the 1954 opener, replacing Phil Cavarretta who was accused of defeatism. Stanley at least got the Cubs enthused for the first three games. They were 2-1 then, having scored 41 runs on 47 hits, including seven homers and 13 doubles.

Finished Seventh

Some of the excitement stayed with the hitters awhile and the Cubs smacked 83 hits during their first six games. Yet their record was just 3-3 and they never got above .500 again, winding up in seventh place.

The Cubs are just about even with that fast break pace this spring. They've slugged the opposition (St. Louis and Cincinnati) for 42 hits, with six home runs and 12 doubles. It's the same old crew Hack has worked up this spring to do the swinging—Randy Jackson, Hank Sauer and Dee Fondy, with the help of some later day Cubs, Ernie Banks and Gene Baker.

Late Home Runs

Question is, how long can it last. It lasted through yesterday, anyway, with Hal Jeffcoat, Jackson and Banks giving the Cubs three home runs in the ninth and 10th innings to beat winless Cincinnati 6-4.

The victory kept the Cubs a jump ahead of Brooklyn and Philadelphia, also still unbeaten but having played but twice. The Brooks patted the world champion New York Giants 10-8, and the Phils beat Pittsburgh 4-3. St. Louis and five home runs beat Milwaukee 8-7 in 11 innings in the other NL game.

Campy Blasts Homer

In the American league, Cleveland marred Detroit's home opener 5-3 to keep pace with unbeaten

Boston, which beat the New York Yankees 8-4. The Chicago White Sox defeated Kansas City 7-1 on Sandy Consuegra's three-hitter. Rain washed out Baltimore's night game at Washington.

Roy Campanella, unhappy with his next-to-last spot in the Brooklyn batting order smashed a three-run homer in the fourth and Don Newcombe followed with the first of his two long clouts to put the Giants behind for keeps in the fourth.

Elston Howard became the first Negro to appear in a regular season game for the Yankees when he went into left field to replace Irv Noren, thumbed out of the game with Hank Bauer in a disputed play. Howard singled and drove in one of the eighth inning runs.

Sugar Ray Stops Olla In Third

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Sugar Ray Robinson sagely stemmed the optimism himself Thursday night after winning his fourth comeback fight by hammering Ted Olla into a third round TKO defeat.

It was the third—and most impressive—victory against one loss for the former welter and middleweight champion since he came back to the ring in October, "but I'm not ready for Bobo Olson yet," Robinson said.

"I'm happy at my progress but I'm just beginning to find myself," the 34-year-old past master declared. "I'm not at a point yet where I'd want to or could fight Olson for the middleweight title."

Robinson said he figured September would be the time.

What has Robinson got left that the old Sugar Ray had

High Average Teams Score ABC Payoffs

FORT WAYNE, Ind. (AP)—The 1,000-plus average teams are beginning to make themselves felt more around the American Bowling Congress Tournament, although many of the top quintets have proved a big disappointment.

The third over-1,000 club to join the leaders is Maibach's Home Furnishings No. 1, of Sterling, Ohio. They made the grade Thursday night with a pin-heavy 1,638 final game for a total of 2,986.

This gives the Maibachs a tie for sixth place in the open division standings.

Big Average Teams

The other two big average clubs among the leaders are the Steve Nagy Grips of Cleveland, third with a 3,013 total, and King Louie Shirts of Chicago, tied for sixth with 2,986. The leaders, Cole Finder Mercury of Chicago and Howard's Clothes of St. Paul, Minn., with 3,015 totals, boast averages of 992 and 965 respectively.

There were other changes in standings in other events. Feature was a fast shuffling around second place in the doubles with the runner-up spot changing hands three times within five hours.

Jack Baum and Andy Hudoba of Youngstown, Ohio, were in second place when firing started on the first shift. But Robert Bowman and Harry Richard of Findlay, Ohio, topped their 1,270 with 1,283. On the final afternoon shift, John Supple and Joe Memichele of Chicago fired a 1,288, only two pins behind the leaders, George Lutzen and Bill Hilligoss of Niles, Mich.

Growing Pressure Makes It Tough On Willie Mays

NEW YORK (AP)—The evergrowing, punishing pressure on Willie Mays makes this the toughest of all years for the New York Giants' brilliant center fielder.

So says Jackie Robinson, the Dodger star, who as the first Negro to play in the majors, had to surmount the greatest pressure ever heaped upon a baseball player.

Long after Brooklyn had outlasted the Giants 10-8 in a wild slugfest at the Polo Grounds Thursday, Jackie remained in the clubhouse relaxing.

"I'll tell you what was the most significant thing about our victory," he said suddenly. "It was our ability to stop Willie Mays."

"You know something. I don't envy Willie. He'll be playing under the most terrific pressure all year, more than he can handle, I think. Everybody is expecting him to duplicate or better his great season of 1954. They won't settle for anything less. Look what happened out there today. Every time he came to bat, the fans started yelling for a home run.

"Every place, everytime, it's 'we want Willie, we want Willie.' Wherever the team goes, Willie is the center of attraction. Sure, Willie is great, maybe the greatest. But he's still a kid. How old is he? 23 or 24?"

"I think he is already showing signs of pressure."

Favor Flying Wheels In Wheel Chair Meet

RANTOUL, Ill. (AP)—The unbeaten Flying Wheels of Long Beach, Calif., sporting an 11-game victory streak for the season, have been installed title favorites as the National Wheel Chair Basketball Tourney enters the semifinals tonight.

The Flying Wheels will meet the Pan American Jets of New York and the St. Louis Rams face the Illinois Gizz Kids. The winners play for the championship Saturday night.

The seventh annual tourney is being held at Chanute Air Base.

The Californians moved through the first round Thursday with a 47-32 victory over the Bulova Watchmen of New York.

The Jets advanced with a 39-31 decision over the Kansas City Pioneers, the Rams downed the New York Spokesmen 49-46, and the Gizz Kids, 1953 champions, edged the New Jersey Wheelers, defending titlists, 39-38 in a double overtime.

Charlie Powell KO'd By Detroit Fighter

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Johnny Summerlin, 192, of Detroit, scored a sixth round knockout over Charlie Powell, 212½, of San Diego, in their scheduled ten-round fight at the Olympic Auditorium Thursday night.

Powell, the former San Francisco 49'er football playing athlete, fighting his 15 professional bout, took the count after a heavy barrage of punches to the head after 1:18 of the sixth round.

Summerlin, a young heavyweight prospect making his 31st visit to the ring in the pro ranks, had Powell down for a nine count in the fourth round. It took no less than fifteen lefts and rights, most of them to the head, to floor the six-foot three-inch Powell.

CARD OF THANKS

Plans are complete for administration of Salk vaccine to first and second graders here and the clinical immunization program will be scheduled as soon as vaccine is received, Dr. R. A. Tearnan, director of the Alger-Schoolcraft Health department reports.

The department has been informed that its allocation of the polio-preventing drug will be sent from the Powers branch state laboratory. No information has been received, however, on date of shipment.

The clinics will be conducted in Manistique and Munising and private physicians will assist in both cities, Dr. Tearnan said. Alger county has 380 registered for the vaccine and Schoolcraft 366.

A deadline to file parental consent forms with the Alger-Schoolcraft Health department was set for April 8. Those who did not sign before the deadline may not be able to have their children immunized because of a limited supply of the vaccine, the health director pointed out.

"However, the department will do all in its power to take care of any first and second grader, if requests are made immediately," Dr. Tearnan stated.

County Board Votes To Buy Tax Equipment; Committees Named

A resolution to purchase tax writing equipment, provided a majority of the eight townships and the City of Manistique agree to share in the cost, was passed by the Schoolcraft County Board of Supervisors Thursday afternoon.

The City of Manistique and Mueller, Manistique and Gernfask townships already have agreed to the purchase, and to pay a proportionate share of cost of equipment and service. A representative of the Green Bay firm supplying the equipment is scheduled to meet Saturday and on May 7 with officials in other townships.

Townships Share Cost
A bid on the needed equipment was submitted earlier by the Addressograph Sales Agency of Green Bay. The county board's tax writing equipment committee recommended the board's action Thursday.

Wells Bowers is chairman and other members are George Stephens, Lial Lake, William Popour and Herbert Burns.

Under present plans, each township and the city will pay part of the cost of the equipment, and their share of the labor costs involved in preparing address plates and tax descriptions. Once the machinery is installed, tax rolls for each political unit will be prepared with the machine.

The special committee for tax equipment Thursday was ordered to continue functioning, and to confer with the county treasurer relative to plans for operating the machines.

Russia To End Occupation, Give Austria Freedom

four-power occupation.

It would mean also that the Russians will have met a key prerequisite to a Big Four meeting laid down by President Eisenhower: That Moscow give some evidence of good faith which would promise that a Big Four session might be fruitful. He has mentioned an Austrian treaty in that connection.

Another key requirement, integration of West German military power with the Western European Union, already is in a fair way toward realization. Denmark and the Netherlands, the only countries yet to act, are expected to do so by month's end or soon after.

This would clear the way for a meeting of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization ministerial council, tentatively set for May 9. Chief business of that session will be welcoming West Germany as the 15th NATO member. Over-shadowing this perfunctory affair is the ready-made opportunity for a meeting of the Big Three foreign ministers.

Reports Encouraging
Aides of Secretary of State Dulles, British Foreign Secretary Harold MacMillan and French Foreign Minister Antoine Pinay have been meeting for weeks to settle details. A French spokesman said at Paris Thursday this group has agreed on methods to be used in preparing for a foreign ministers' meeting with Russia.

The Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov, conducted the three days of talks just ended at Moscow with an Austrian announcement that Russia is willing to end the occupation. Molotov is expected to be on hand at San Francisco in June at a ceremonial marking the 10th anniversary of the U. N. Also expected there are Dulles, MacMillan and Pinay, so again the stage is set for exploratory talks.

Dulles has ruled out any full dress East-West meeting then. But at the same news conference last week, Dulles would not entirely discount hope of reaching an East-West settlement.

The last Big Four foreign ministers' meeting at Berlin in February 1954 broke up in disagreement when Molotov suddenly injected a new issue into negotiations for an Austrian treaty.

The State Department termed "encouraging" reports from Moscow that the Soviets have now come to terms.

Of the three Western Allies, the United States has been the most reluctant since the Berlin conference to go through a repeat performance.

Weekend Weather Will Be Warmer

The noonday temperature in Escanaba was 35 degrees. This compared to a high of 45 degrees one year and the record high of 64 degrees on the date in 1908, according to S. E. Decker, Weather Bureau meteorologist at Escanaba.

Letters To The Editor

Where Is Flashing Signal?

Dear Editor: When are the proper authorities going to erect the flashing safety signals at the junction on highways 2 and 41 at Rapid River? The Escanaba Daily Press in a story about six months ago stated that safety flashing signals were to be installed in the near future.

Nobody can tell me there isn't a priority on safety equipment and that the company that manufactures them can't expedite delivery. It's a public shame that nothing has been done.

What prompted me to write this letter is the accident last night, April 13, at the junction. I've talked to a number of people in Rapid River and although they are familiar with the road, even they have close calls. None of us are infallible but a signal would be a reminder of approaching danger. What is the cost of flashing signals compared to loss of human life or limb or property damage. Let's correct the situation immediately.
